Place in the Country

Par Adam & The Ants

Album : Antbox 2

All I thought I wanted was a front door

All I thought I wanted was a place in the country

Now I realise I wanted so much more

Some I love but you I adore

You think you're really swinging

But you're off the beat

The moves your brains a thinking

Doesn't reach your feet

You got to get this complication out of your head

Or find another man instead

All I thought I wanted was a front door

All I thought I wanted was a place in the country

Now I realise I wanted so much more

Some I love but you I adore

You listen very close to what the bad girls said

In all those crumby articles and in my bed

They say I'm just a stripper not afraid to strip

I got my brains rattlin' my hips

(Okay Marco let's hear what you can do!*)

All I thought I wanted was a front door

All I thought I wanted was a place in the country

Now I realise I wanted so much more

Some I love but you I adore

You've got the kind of looks

That make a dead man stare

But when it comes to working honey

You ain't there

I try to tell you nicely but the screaming starts

You're playing ping pong with my heart

All I thought I wanted was a front door

All I thought I wanted was a place in the country

Now I realise I wanted so much more

Some I love but you I adore

All I thought I wanted was a front door

All I thought I wanted was a place in the country

Now I realise I wanted so much more

I've heard enough don't wanna hear no more
