When You Love Someone

Par Anita B & James Ingram

Album : Sweet love

Were we ever, did we use it up too fast

Our great moments never meant to last

And the last thing that I want

Is to ever make your smile go away

Keep the memories take the best of what we had

I can't stand to watch what once was great go bad

And if I can't be with you

Then I'd rather just remember what we knew

When you love someone

And you love them with your heart

And it doesn't disappear if you're apart

When you love someone

And you've done all you can do, you've done all you can

Then you set them free

And if that love is true

When you love someone

It will all come back to you

Nights I wondered was it too much that we gave

And if we had given more could we have both been saved

And I guess we've crossed the line

Love was knowing what was yours

And what was mine

When you love someone

Then you love them with your heart

And it doesn't disappear if you're apart

And through it all, I still have no regrets

Just promise me, promise me

You never will forget, you never will forget

When you love someone

And you have done all you can do

Then you set them free and if that love is true

If you love someone, it will all come back to you
