Wrong Man

Par Anita Baker

Album : Rhythm Of Love

I feel you moving, slipping away

I try to call, but I can't find the words to say

My lips move ahh but they don't make a sound

I hear your voice but you're nowhere around

I close my eyes I can't find my sleep

My wounds will not heal, If you cut me too deep

My mind is strong but my spirit is weak

I got to get back on my feet

Well, you can be so cruel

Oh, I just don't understand

Do the tears that I cry, baby

Hey, does it make you feel like a man?

And I told you once, boy

Oh, baby let me tell you again

You can't do right 'cause your the

Wrong man

Chorus

You're the wrong man

You're the wrong man

You're the wrong man

I hear you calling but I ain't no fool

I've got to be stronger, I've got to get over you

Each time I cry it's a sign of my pain

Every tear that falls carries your name

All I know is it cannot go on

Every thing I do for you is wrong

Ain't nothing I can say or can do

I just got to, I gotta get up child

I gotta move.

Hear me baby

Tell me what you want me to do

Ain't my my my, ain't my lovin' good

Enough for you?

I told you once boy, baby lemme

Tell you again

(Chorus)

You know I love you

Sometimes it just ain't enough

And I don't wanna leave you

Baby but I'm giving you up

And I told you once boy

And I don't wanna tell you again

You can't do right 'cause

You're the wrong man

You can't do right baby (repeat)

I'd rather lose you, child

Than lose my mind, yeah

I'd rather lose you

Then to lose my mind
