Heaven

Par Anne Clark

Album : Live At The Music Centrum Utre

Every day as heaven

Moves further and further away

Familiar blue eyes I once knew

Turn a colder shade of grey

Every day as heaven

Moves further and further away

Familiar words we used to share

Seem so difficult to say

And I am alone

In a world of cold flesh

Cold steel, cold stone

I close up like a clam

And shut the world out with the slam of the door

To shut out all the fighting, all the hatred, all the war

You just cannot stay calm

When your soul screams less, but something always wants more

What for?

Every day as heaven

Moves further and further away

Familiar blue eyes I once knew

Turn a colder shade of grey

Every day as heaven

Moves further and further away

Familiar words we used to share

Seem impossible to say

Every day

Every day

Heaven moves further and further away

Everyday

Everyday

Heaven is moving further and further away

Every day

Every day
