Dirt Around the Tree

Par Candi Carpenter feat. Brandi Carlile

Album : Dirt Around the Tree

I was born in the fall

The season when everything is dying

We must know what we're in for

That's why we come into this world crying

My mother always told me life's not fair

That's probably why I ran away

I don't think that I felt safe at home

And I don't think that's ever gonna change

Tell me, what's at the root of all my guilt and anger?

What's in the dirt around the tree

Heartbreak runs in the family

That's why I'm still running from me

I read that trauma is genetic

Who was the first to hand it down?

Was it my grandpa or his father?

You can't ask someone who ain't around

Tell me, what's at the root of all my guilt and anger?

What's in the dirt around the tree?

Heartbreak runs in the family

That's why I'm still running from me

I wanna be more than a lost little girl

I'm gonna grow up someday

Maybe I'll plant another family tree

Somewhere far, far away

Far from the root of my all guilt and anger

The blood in the dirt and on the leaves

Tell me, what's at the root of all my guilt and anger?

Am I who I'm supposed to be?

Heartbreak runs in the family

That's why I'm still running from me

Heartbreak runs in the family

Why am I still running from me?
