Back to the Basics

Par Clawfinger

Album : 1995 - Use Your Brain

Back to the basics super naturalistic

Baby put away your make up and your lipstick

Your High heels, tight skirts, the rest of all you plastic

I'm telling you it's making you look even more spastic

Hanging at the hot spots looking for attention

Showing off you brand new silicone extension

All the men be staring but they only want to slam it

They couldn't give a fuck about your inside damn it

I know where I wanna go

But in case you didn't know

I'm going back to the basics

Back to the basics, living as you learn

So forget about the money let it burn baby burn

You can't have it all how hard you ever try

No matter what you get there's always more you can buy

Walk it like you talk it forget about our street smart

The friends in you surrounding love you for your real heart

Spending all your money, boy don't waste it

Right about now we're going back to the basics

I know where I wanna go

But in case you didn't know

I'm going back to the basics

Basics, Basics, Basics...

Don't be ashamed about the way you might look

You don't read a person like you read a comic book

There's a whole lot more than just meets the eye

If you hear something else then it's a goddamn lie

The way you're going out is really getting to me

'Cause some people only see what they think they want to see

If life ain't more than money and a facelift

Right about now we're going back to the basics

I know where I want to go

Know, know

We're going back to the basics
