Well, I've been acting like a boy all week

Looking for a way to go out for a drink

Felt a bit too tired of people smiling at me

You started talking 'bout them, then you cried

I listened closely 'cause you could not lie

All the whispers come to my address

And I just can't wait for the other part

And my face is in the dust, and you know I must pretend

But I'm feeling slowly overwhelmed

And you know I must believe all the words I didn't hear

You've been calling me all night long

You kept calling 'til I lost my phone

Though I've been telling you, my secrets end with lies

And I'm so tired of this whole damn noise

I'm just so tired, could it be much worse?

We have tried, but we failed to loosen up

But I just can't wait for the other part

And my face is in the dust, and you know I must pretend

But I'm feeling slowly overwhelmed

And you know I must believe all the words I didn't hear

You've been calling me all night long

But I just can't wait for the other part

And my face is in the dust, and you know I must pretend

But I'm feeling slowly overwhelmed

And you know I must believe all the words I didn't hear
