Some Other Sucker's Parade

Par Del Amitri

Album : Hatful Of Rain - Best Of

I must've had a million damn unlucky days
But there ain't no cloud that a bottle can't chase away
I've done my deal of living, ran from place to place
But when the roof comes in I don't wanna take it straight
They say with faith any soul can make it

But hell, why should I wait

Till the clouds go rain on some other sucker's parade?

I've had my share of heartaches, let-downs and tricks
But the everyday blues is the one thing I can't fix
I've heard those holy brethren muttering my name
But it ain't no sin to drink when you're suffering
Patience, they say, is a saintly virtue

But hell, why should I wait

Till the clouds go rain on some other sucker's parade?

Till the clouds go rain on some other sucker's parade?

When every heavy skyline just empties on your faith

Sometimes keeping dry's just something to celebrate

So if the road of sin is the one I'm taking

I ain't gonna stray

Till the clouds go rain on some other sucker's parade.

Till the clouds go rain on some other sucker's parade.
