02 Everything Remains (As It Never Was)

Par Eluveitie

Album : Everything Remains As It Never Was

Who will measure the dimensions of antumnos?

Who can tell the gauge of it's veil?

Who can manifest the size of it's maw?

And infer the value of it's stones?

Yet the glowing wick will not be quenched

The sown fire will never die

What is

What ever was

What ever is to come

What would

What ever should

It will remain as it never was

Eternity's past was repeated in time

The eternal knot will be unbroken

Whence comes the motion in this picture?

Where does the moment go when it steals away?

Who will pen the pages of the time?

Who will be the audience when the curtains rises?

Yet the glowing wick will not be quenched

The sown fire will never die

What is

What ever was

What ever is to come

What would

What ever should

It will remain as it never was

Where do we go?

What have we become?

Whither went what was?

Shall there ever be dawn?

Did we ever change?

What is

What ever was

What ever is to come

What would

What ever should

It will remain as it never was

What is

What ever was

What ever is to come

What would

What ever should

It will remain as it never was
