Devils Party

Par INXS

Album : La Cigale, Paris

At the devil's party nothing's a sin

At the devil's party we know where you've been

If we're all right then tell me who's wrong

The love in a war, where do we belong?

I might believe it's love, you might believe it's war

At the devil's party there's no light from the sun

At the devil's party, now, life's a loaded gun

More or less? No, less is more

Go on and be my guest

Where do we belong?

I might believe it's love, you might live a little more

Dreams of yours, dreams of mine

Dreams of all that shine on the other side, on the other side

At the devil's party watch them stare in vain

At the devil's party, now, you're no friend of mine

Oh, lonely days of the road to excess

When you're on fire you burn like the rest

I might believe it's love, and you might believe it's war

Why don't we take a little less? Then we could live a little more

Dreams of yours, dreams of mine

Dreams of all that breathe on the other side, on the other side
