Still Care

Par John Kailian

Album : No Clue

Tried chasing you, but I didn't get far

I don't think I'll be making it to where you are

It could slap me in the face and I wouldn't believe it

There's gotta be some other reason for you believing

I guess you're searching for yourself out there

Well, if you find her, can you tell her I still care?

Well, if you find her, can you tell her I still care?

Is your heart cold like the air you're breathing?

And have you found some other lost souls you're misleading

A couple stray dogs looking for a shelter in the winter

But if I beg, take me back

I bet you'll find it within her

I guess you're searching for yourself out there

Well, if you find her, can you tell her I still care?

Strung along now but I addicted to the feeling

'Cause when you glance my way my heart jumps to the ceiling

But it won't be long before he crashes down

'Cause when I call your name I never hear a sound

I guess you're searching for yourself out there

Well, if you find her, can you tell her I still care?

Well, if you find her, can you tell her I still care?

I tried chasing you but I didn't get far

I don't think I'll be making it to where you are

It could slap me in the face and I wouldn't believe it

There's gotta be some other reason for your leaving
