Fortune Teller

Par Kero Kero Bonito

Album : Bonito Classic

I came here

In control of my life

'Cause I thought

Everything was alright

Oh you talk (no)

We talk without action baby

Though you said you liked my watch

Just before asking what my star sign was

Then I heard you later say

That those who use horoscopes

Should get a therapist around

Do they wear your glasses

With those

Feathers hanging down

Now I'm no economist but I could tell you

Something's wrong with this trade off

But likewise I don't know

What I'm talking about

No I don't

A single teardrop

Falls from my eye

But I'm kind of hoping

That we are not pretending

Anymore

The badges have been traded

So I guess its time to go

And yet we take the same route

What a wonderful coincidence

Though you don't hear me complaining

In fact I'm happy

To be a contact on your phone

I guess that's some kind of action

I hope you rescue me quite soon

I came here

In control of my life

'Cause I thought

Everything was alright

But it's not

A single teardrop

Falls from my eye

But I'm kind of hoping

That we are not pretending

Anymore

And what do you say to that

I'm not sure what she meant with that touch

But then I think about these things too much

So maybe love is not the answer
