The Unraveling

Par Rise Against

Album : The Unraveling

And all these things that we tie together
Keep unraveling apart
And the light that used to burn so bright
Now is dark with anger-laced intent
We set fire to the bridges that remain
And they're wading through the current now

Drown in the flood of the tears
That have been wept
And I scream to the sky
No, you are not alone

Whoa-oh-oh-oh

If you think that you're words will ever make a difference
Think again and carry on
'Cause the weight behind the hand that holds us is strong
There is hope in the roar of a thousand pleading cries
And all these things that we talk together, yeah

The sound of their tongues being bitten

Is all I hear

As we fire at the whites of theirs eyes

Dance on ashes of the world

Woah-ho-ho-ho-woah

Must we drown in the flood of the tears

That have been wept?

And their tongues being bitten

Is all that I can hear

As I scream to the sky

I need you now

Whoa-oh-oh-oh

Can you feel this truth, now unraveling?

Or will you chase the burning sun into the sea?
