The One

Par Terri Clark

Album : Roots and Wings

I hear the whispers as I walk by

They always start with 'bless her heart'

She's still single and that's such an empty life

She must not be looking all that hard

They've all got their stories

Of why I'm still alone

But the only truth that matters is my own

I want fireworks to paint the sky

A kiss to burn my lips

I wanna feel the touch that pounds my heart

Down to my fingertips

And twenty years from now

It still won't be as good as it will get

It might be a lot to ask for

But I won't take any less

Just because I won't settle

Don't mean I won't settle down

I don't need a love that I can live with

I want the one I can't live without

Momma's always getting on me

She says I don't give anyone a chance

But if I can't feel the music when somebody holds me

How am I supposed to dance?

There might be a few more lonely nights

But I'm not keeping score

It's worth the wait for what I'm waiting for

Fireworks to paint the sky

A kiss to burn my lips

I wanna feel the flesh that pounds my heart

Down to my fingertips

And twenty years from now

It still won't be as good as it will get

It might be a lot to ask for

But I won't take any less

Just because I won't settle

Don't mean I won't settle down

I don't need a love that I can live with

I want the one I can't live without

And just because I won't settle

Don't mean I won't settle down

I don't need a love that I can live with

I want the one I can't live without

Oh, I can't live without
