Another Life to Give

Par The Guardians

Album : Lift Him Up

What did I ever do that You would lift my load of care?

What could I ever say to make You hear my earnest prayer?

There's at least a million things I'd change about the way I've lived

I wish I had another life to give

But You kept right on loving me when all I did was wrong

You picked up broken melodies, and turned them into song

And though I can't repay Your grace for all the things You've been

I wish I had another life to give

If I had another life to give

A chance to show how much Your love has made

I'd make Your will my heart's endeavor

A work of love that lasts forever

If I had another life to give

So, Lord, I give my all to You, my victories and defeats

And every trophy that I've won, I lay them at Your feet

For I could never pay the debt I owe for sin

I wish I had another life to give, oh

If I had another life to give

A chance to show how much Your love has made

I'd make Your will my heart's endeavor

A work of love that lasts forever

If I had another life to give

A chance to show how much Your love has made

And I'd make Your will my heart's endeavor

A work of love that lasts forever

If I had another life to give

A life to give
