Still America

Par Thomas Mac

Album : My Sister

My grandpa used to tell a story, and he swore it was true

He had a fifty cal on his back when he saved half of his platoon

He said we lost a lot of good men, fighting in that war

But to this day he still waves that old flag on his front porch

Some say this country ain't got much pride left

But the last time I checked

This is still America, the land of the red, white, and blue

(This is still America, the land of the red, white, and blue)

We got freedom running in our veins

And the bells of liberty still ring true

And at the end of the day there ain't a place I'd rather raise my own

(At the end of the day there ain't a place I'd rather raise my own)

This is still America, my country, my heart, my home

CNN says it's the right, Fox News says it's the left

But if you ask me I disagree, I just think it's them

'Cause when I look out my window it sure don't look up in flames

I just see hard workin' people tryin' to find their way

In the home of the brave

This is still America, the land of the red, white, and blue

(This is still America, the land of the red, white, and blue)

We got freedom running in our veins

And the bells of liberty still ring true

And at the end of the day there ain't a place I'd rather raise my own

(At the end of the day there ain't a place I'd rather raise my own)

Yeah this is still America, my country, my heart, my home

From the California sunset, to the hills of Tennessee

One nation under God and may it always be

This is still America, the land of the red, white, and blue

We got freedom running in our veins

And the bells of liberty still ring true

And at the end of the day there ain't a place I'd rather raise my own

(At the end of the day there ain't a place I'd rather raise my own)

Yeah this is still America, my country, my heart, my home

Yeah

This is still America

This is still America

This is still America
