Hey Bob Dylan's army ran over me today

Viking soldiers were, kicking me in the ribs and

In the ribs yeah...

Oh I laughed so hard

I laughed so hard

I even cried...

You

Better believe it,

You better just leave it

And everyone

Saw the crystal ball in my hands break,

When I had put so much at stake,

So much at stake...

So I ran so hard

I ran so hard

I even stayed...

You

Better believe it,

You, better just leave it

And as this flame is just about to fade,

I watch it take its very last breath,

Its very last breath,

And it shines so hard

Once you get to finally see it all, you see that what rises just has to fall, do you get the picture baby

It shines so hard

Once you get to finally see it all, you see that what rises just has to fall, now there's no one there to save me

And all I have left is a song with no end with no end

Yeah it's stuck in my head and it wont go away, go away!

Oh we laugh so hard

We laugh so hard

We even cry...

We even cry
