I'm Holding My Own (1994)

You said the only thing harder than saying goodbye

Was saying hello after all this time

But I ran into you with your new love in tow

You say you've worried about me and you want to know how am I getting by

Well thank you I'm holding my own don't you worry about me no more

It hurt me when you left me alone but there's two sides to every door

And the life you left behind has led to lives I'd have never known

So thank you I'm holding my own

Your new love walked on up while we said goodbye

You took my hand and you caught my eye

Tell me there's a chance for another try

You would love to hear from me some sweet time

I guess you didn't understand

Well thank you I'm holding my own don't you worry about me no more

It hurt me when you left me alone but there's two sides to every door

And the life you left behind has led to lives I'd have never known

So thank you I'm holding my own

There's a lesson I learned when a love stays true

If you look long enough you'll find the one who was looking for you

Right now I'm holding my own don't you worry about me no more

It hurt me when you left me alone but there's two sides to every door

And the life you left behind has led to lives I'd have never known

So thank you I'm holding my own

Thank you I'm holding my own
